

Since taking up photography as a hobby in 2016, it has been an interesting journey and a steep learning curve. Along the way I have realised that there are no rules. Each photographer simply needs to develop their own style. That style will also change over time. To me, photography is now about trying to create an image that combines art, atmosphere and soul. I also try to embrace the concept of wabi sabi, finding beauty in imperfection.

My Vistas project brings together views taken on photographic trips.
