

I'm passionate about motorcycles. Every year I attend the BikeShed motorcycle show at Tobacco Dock, London. It's a celebration of custom motorcycles. Initially, I attended to view and photograph the motorcycles, however, over the years, my passion for motorcycles has combined with my passion for street photography, so my emphasis shifted to taking photographs of the people who attend the event.

My Bikers project documents the bikes, the people and the laid back atmosphere of the event.
