

In 2023 I visited the Daido Moriyama exhibition at the Photographer's Gallery in London. It proved to be another inspirational event. I instantly 'got' his work. The technique of wandering the streets taking 'snapshots' without any constraints immediately inspired my future approach to photography.

Moriyama states, "Get outside. It's all about getting out and walking. That's the first thing. The second thing is, forget everything you've learned on the subject of photography for the moment, and just shoot. Take photographs—of anything and everything, whatever catches your eye. Don't pause to think."

My Snapshots project is the coalescence of all the styles and techniques I have encountered during my photography journey.
